DETAILED ACTION

1. The request filed on November 28, 2000 for a Continued Prosecution Application (CPA) under 37 CFR 1.53(d) based on parent Application No. 09/021,956 is acceptable and a CPA has been established. An action on the CPA follows.
2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 77-78, 81-82, 127-128 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Entenmann et al. (Entenmann) in view of the reference entitled "The AT&T Multi-Mode Voice Systems - Full Spectrum Solutions for Speech Processing Applications" by Hester et al. (Hester).

Entenmann discloses a telephonic-interface control system for a game of chance comprising:

interface means (col. 2, lines 54-56), said interface means also receiving calling number identification signals and using said calling number identification signals for controlling certain operations (ANI signals are received and used to determine eligibility of the caller; col. 2, lines 7-13; col. 2, line 55 - col. 3, line 2);
voice generator means (announcement system 17);
processing means (control processor 8);

Art Unit: 2643

qualification means (col. 2, line 65 - col. 3, line 4); means for storing (database 19).

Although Entenmann provides for a plurality of lotteries (plurality of formats) being controlled by the same system (col. 2, lines 47-48), it differs from claims 77-78, 81-82 in that it does not specify the use of DNIS for selecting from the plurality of formats. However, Hester teaches the well known use of DNIS for access to a plurality of formats (page 3, second paragraph) such that it would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill to incorporate the use of DNIS, as taught by Hester, within the lottery system of Entenmann in order to automatically identify the selected lottery format from a plurality of lottery formats using DNIS.

4. Claims 24-76, 79-80, 83-88, 129-148 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Entenmann in view of Hester, as applied to claims 77-78, 81-82, 127-128 above, and further in view of Barr and Muller et al. (Muller).

The combination of Entenmann and Hester differs from claims 24-76, 79-80, 83-88, 129-148 in that it does not specify a distinct indicia, or bar code number, co-related to at least a portion of the identification number provided on the ticket. However, Barr teaches the well known use of lottery ticket provided with a lottery number to be entered by dialing in to a provided telephone number and Muller teaches the conventional use of a bar code number co-related to the lottery identification number for the purpose of providing a high level of security when verifying winning tickets (Abstract) such that it would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill to incorporate the use of a lottery ticket, as taught by Barr, and the use of a bar code, as taught by Muller, within the combination of Entenmann and Hester.

5. Claims 89-126 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Entenmann, Hester, Barr and Muller, as applied to claims 24-76, 79-80, 83-88, 129-148 above, and further in view of Run, Jr. et al. (Run).

The combination differs from claims 89-126 in that it does not specify the use of visual indicia illustrative of a specific theme along with a name or numerical value associated with said specific theme. However, as shown by Run (Figs. 1, 2), it is well known in the lottery art to provide for visual indicia illustrating a specific theme along with identification of the particular lottery (which can be either name or numerical value). Since the combination clearly provides for a plurality of different lottery formats (Entenmann provides for a plurality of lotteries which can have different payoff amounts; col. 2, lines 42-48), it would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill to identify the different lottery formats via different visual indicia shown on the lottery card along with either the particular lottery name and/or payoff amount.
